Monica Mațincu
Romanian Orthodox Church of the “Old Kingdom” at the beginning of the XX-th century
(Summary)

Between the end of 19th century and the beginning of 20th century, the Romanian Orthodox Church had bring-up-to-date from the legislative viewpoint and, also, from the relationship with State. For the first time, the internal regulations are printed, reestablishing a new connection with the civil society. The words „bringing to life” of the Bible finds recaulness in the young lady’s soul from good families, which are creating, in co-operation with clerics, charity establishments, despite given western education.

Keywords: Romanian Orthodox Church, modern state, legislation, institutional life, public education