These three documents are very important for making complete the history of the Bukovina church from the early 19th century. Its give us valuable information about the circulation of the Romanian language, about the manner of transmission of the central authorities orders in this territory, about the features of the church documents and about the lack of interest of some archpriests regarding the orders of some of theirs superiors as well.